

HUMAN DIFFERENCE

ANTHROPOLOGY SCOTLAND 2017

A DAY OF WORKSHOPS FOR STUDENTS FROM S4-S6

National Museum of Scotland

Come and discover what anthropologists do in this day of hands-on workshops led by National Museums Scotland staff and anthropologists from four leading Scottish universities. Learn how we think about cultural difference; how refugees build new homes; how knotted string can be a form of writing; and much more!

Pupils will be able to attend three 50-minute workshops, as well as meet students and staff from each of the universities taking part and find out more about what studying anthropology at university involves.

Groups welcome. Pupils must be accompanied by a teacher or parent. Visitors are asked to bring a packed lunch.

Confirmed workshops so far:

- The Refugee Experience
- The Culture Game
- Sustainable and Renewable Energy
- The Life of A National Geographic Explorer:
Studying Material Culture in the Peruvian Andes
- Anthropology in the Museum
- Bone Worlds
- The Social Life of Bees

Enquiries to Tom Boylston: tom.boylston@ed.ac.uk

10.00 - 15.00 | FRIDAY 23 JUNE 2017
NATIONAL MUSEUM OF SCOTLAND
CHAMBERS STREET
EDINBURGH, EH1 1JF

BOOKING: ANTHROPOLOGYSCOTLAND2017.EVENTBRITE.CO.UK

THE UNIVERSITY of EDINBURGH

UNIVERSITY of ABERDEEN

University of St Andrews

University of Glasgow

This event is a collaboration between National Museums Scotland and anthropologists from the Universities of Aberdeen, Edinburgh, Glasgow, and St Andrews